Press Release 21st July 2009

“Palenke – Live Salsa band at The Jazz Café 24th July!”

The Jazz Café are very excited to announce they are hosting London's leading live Salsa band Palenke this Friday 24th July! Steering away the usual soul, jazz and swing music associated with the club at weekends, Palenke will be bringing a Latin flavour to The Jazz Cafe

This all singing band includes the traditional Latin rhythm section, piano, guitar, bass, congas, bongos and timbale. Palenke's eclectic repertoire is passionate, dynamic and eminently danceable: from the characteristically hot blooded tempos of Cuban Salsa and Brazilian Lambada, the traditional folk rhythms of Colombian cumbia and Dominican Merengue, to the latest Caribbean Reggae and universally popular Spanish style "Gypsy Kings".

Having performed previously for Prince Charles and King Juan Carlos of Spain, Palenke will further add to the already highly successful Salsa dancing classes held monthly at The Jazz Café.

Promotions and Events Manager Chris Gillett said: “The Salsa classes held here once a month on a Sunday have proved very successful so we're delighted to further our commitment to diverse music genres with the arrival of Palenke. They are highly popular in London and have an excellent and unique live sound, so we are looking forward to it”.

Office Manager Sally Baker added: “It will be a refreshing addition to our successful live music held here every weekend. Palenke come with a big reputation and it's causing a lot of excitement around The Jazz Café.”
